According to a 2022 report by the UN Food and Agriculture Organization, over 800 million people worldwide are experiencing hunger. Climate change, the COVID-19 pandemic, and conflict (especially the war in Ukraine) are all contributing factors. In the Capital Region, one in ten families experiences food insecurity. Some 65,000 people in our region use food pantries and soup kitchens to help make ends meet.

Out of the total funds raised by the Capital Region CROP Hunger Walks, 25% goes to local food pantries and soup kitchens. With so many people in our region using local free meal programs to provide adequate food for their families, this money is very helpful.

The remaining 75% of the funds raised by CROP Hunger Walks helps support the work of Church World Service and its partners for hunger relief and development projects around the world. Visit www.cwsglobal.org to learn how CWS helps provide emergency food for refugees and disaster victims, improve access to clean water, and provide resources that empower and enable people to meet their own needs.
